

Dürr Dental

Dürr Dental's brand is synonymous with leading edge equipment. Of specific interest to periodontists, as well as dental hygienists and therapists, is their Lunos air polishing system which incorporates one powder jet handpiece and two interchangeable nozzles (for supragingival and subgingival use). Both nozzles can be rotated 360 degrees, to facilitate access to all areas of the oral cavity. The subgingival nozzle features a clip-on, calibrated, sterile, single use tip for precision subgingival application. The Lunos range also comprises a range of prophylaxis powders to assist in the minimally invasive management of biofilm.

New to Dürr's imaging range is VistaScan Ultra View, which has a large touchscreen display providing a clear interface for quick, accurate diagnosis. Efficiency is also enhanced by the unit having two slots, allowing two plates to be scanned simultaneously. The company also have panoramic machines, as well as intra oral cameras and accessories.

Dürr's ethos is to simplify working practices and to use technology to support the team. One example of this can be seen in their networking systems, which can be used on equipment such as the compressor and suction system. By linking them to the network, practices can see their performance at a glance.

The company also has a range of disinfection products, including the market leading Orotol brand.
