

GSK

GSK proudly works closely with the BSP as one of their partner sponsors, helping to promote a better understanding of periodontitis and its impact on patients. GSK provides a range of specialist therapeutic oral care products which are clinically proven to help patients with oral health conditions such as dentine hypersensitivity, gingivitis, erosive tooth wear and xerostomia. Dental teams' recommendation forms an important part of the patient awareness of our oral care brands including the Corsodyl range of products that are specially formulated for patients at risk of gum problems.

Despite a challenging year for everyone, GSK has been delighted to continue to support the BSP and its members with webinars, dental professional support, condition information, education modules and patient care resources. We have continued to support the BSP in driving awareness of the new classification through resources to drive practical implementation of the guidance in general practice. For more information about GSK and to register for CPD, samples and more, visit GSK Health Partner.